Presidents Message

By Dr. Deidre Crockett, SCDA President

Hope all is well to the start of June and start of summer and it's officially Oral Health month!

Annual Session

Registration is now open for the 2025 SCDA Annual Session!

If you have not registered, please click here!

OSHA, Opioid, and Sedation Continuing Education Requirements (CE) can be met for those attending the annual session and participating in those classes. Whether you want to satisfy your 4 hours CE for your sedation license, or learn about IV sedation cases, we have you covered! Also, requirements for South Carolina Permits for IV sedation will be presented right after the sedation course.

We also have the popular hands-on Botox course and a refresher course with Dr. Gigi Meinecke. In addition, we will also have again Dr. Wally Renee presenting hands on classes involving scanners and 3-D printing, as well as, 3-D printed restorations. There will be many clinical classes for dentists and staff to learn in a comfortable environment so please plan to join us at the Convention Center in the middle of the vibrant Vista in downtown Columbia.

Kickoff on the Congaree will be our Thursday evening event! Wear your favorite football team colors while enjoying great food and drinks in a relaxed, casual atmosphere by the river.

Finally, if you would like to donate items to the silent auction, please contact Dr. Mona Ellis at ellism1289@yahoo.com.

We have many sponsors and excellent exhibitors in the very large exhibit hall at the Columbia convention center. Members, please check with your dental representatives or vendors to see if they have registered as an exhibitor.

MUSC Senior Banquet

Remember your Dental School's annual senior banquet? I remember ours fondly. It was so much fun to celebrate our senior class, watch class made videos, and honor our professors. This year, the SCDA was given a table to the banquet and honored by the wonderful MUSC class of 2025. It was a spectacular event that was well organized, and impeccably planned by the senior class members. The class videos showcased the musical talent of the dental students, and yes, the humor we remember from dental school is still intact. It was really awesome.

The MUSC students honored the SCDA with an award from ASDA, and many students thanked the SCDA for the support they have received from our organization. The most memorable moment for me was being present to see Dr. Mona Ellis distribute numerous scholarships from our Districts, SCDA Dental Care Foundation, and SCDA Member Benefits. The students receiving the scholarships were so thankful and I know they're going to excel. It was very heartwarming and we are very thankful that the seniors invited members of the SCDA and SCDA staff to attend.

If you would like to donate to the SCDA Dental Care Foundation, please send a check to the SCDA office.

Being Able to Give Back is One of my Biggest Reasons for Coming to Dentistry'

When Jesse Raybon was a child, like a lot of kids, he was afraid of the dentist. Now, he is becoming one himself as he graduates from the Medical University of South Carolina's James B. Edwards College of Dental Medicine. He credits his childhood dentist with helping him overcome his fear, an experience that he plans to draw from.

"One of my passions is helping people who are afraid become less so and show them that we are here to help you, and we don't want to hurt you in any way. We just want to bring a big smile to your face," Raybon said.

Raybon brought smiles to a lot of people's faces during his time at MUSC. His fellow dental students elected him class president every year he was there. They credit him with working with the college's administration to guide their class through understanding changes to the national licensing exam for dentists, the opening of an Innovation Lab and the college's shift from one type of electronic health record to a new one.

Now, Raybon is poised to take those experiences, along with the knowledge gained during his four years in dental school, to a new environment: the Little River Medical Center in Horry County. It's a federally qualified health center, which means it's part of a program that launched in the 1960s to bring medical, dental, mental health, substance use and other services to communities that need high-quality, affordable care.

"So a lot of our patients are sliding scale and Medicaid or Medicare," Raybon said. "Being able to give back is one of my biggest reasons for coming to dentistry. I love being able to volunteer and help as much as I can."

Amy Martin, who holds a Doctor of Public Health degree and serves as a professor and chair of the Department of Biomedical and Community Health in the College of Dental Medicine, helped Raybon connect with the medical center. "It has been an honor to partner with Jesse during his dental education here at the James B. Edwards College of Dental Medicine. The team at Little River Medical Center are treasured partners and friends to our college," she said.

"Knowing both Little River Medical Center and Jesse as well as I do, I knew instantly he would be a great fit for their organization. His professional purpose and strong sense of community engagement have set him up for success there, and it's a win for Little River, too."

Raybon will come to his new role with some dental office experience that most other recent graduates won't have. He worked as a dental hygienist before starting dental school. "I've always thought that dentistry was interesting. My aunt was a dentist. I really loved that you could give somebody a smile and just bring them joy."

Now, as a graduate of a program with more than 300 students that has a first-time pass rate of 99% for the Integrated National Board Dental Exam, the York native is looking back fondly on his four years in Charleston.

"My time at MUSC has been full of memories, full of friends that I now call family. It's also been challenging academically, but I feel like that's what makes us into the professionals that we've become."

The Progression of your Insurance Needs Throughout your Career

By Jeremy Withers, Withers Crest, an SCDA Endorsed Company

At the beginning of your career, you most likely purchased life insurance to cover loans or for family protection, and disability insurance to protect against a loss of income. As your career progresses your needs for life and disability insurance change and the closer you get to retirement the need diminishes.

Term life insurance is usually purchased while you are young and have higher amounts of debt to income. Which fits the needs of a term life insurance policy because the premiums are low, and the term usually ranges between 10-30 years. The problem is when the term ends the premium increases astronomically. Most of the time people just cancel their policy at this time since their retirement accounts are significant enough to support the surviving spouse. However, what most people don't know is term policies have a rider that allows you to convert the policy to a permanent policy without going through medical underwriting. Permanent policies are a great way to pay for burial or other final costs, gifting money to grandchildren, or covering the taxes on an estate.

Disability insurance also has a diminishing benefit as you get closer to retirement. Most policies will pay to age 65-70, and you have to be working at the time you go onto disability for the policy to pay out. While there isn't a way to convert a disability policy into a long-term care insurance (LTCI) policy, it is a relatively natural replacement. LTCi is recommended to be purchased between the ages of 50-65 while you are still healthy enough to get through underwriting. There are two types of long-term care policies most people consider. There is traditional coverage which has a monthly premium that needs to be paid for the rest of your life. The downside of these policies is premiums tend to increase every 5 years or so, and if you pass away before actually using the benefits the policy becomes worthless. The second type of policy is a hybrid of either life insurance or an annuity in combination with long term care. These policies have fixed premiums, and they are either paid as a lump sum or over 10 years. Another great benefit is if you pass away before using the benefits your heirs will either get a life insurance pay out or the value of the annuity.

To learn more about these policies or to review your current plans, you can reach me at 843-424-7154 or by email jwwithers@witherscrest.com. We are the endorsed insurance specialist for the SCDA and have contracts with over 50 different carriers.

Malpractice insurance that's all about you.

As a dentist, you face unique challenges every day. That's why at MedPro Group, we created an industry-leading malpractice policy that keeps you safe. Here's what else you can expect with MedPro on your side.

Get unmatched coverage.

You'll get great coverage at a great price. We also offer policy options that others don't — including Occurrence and a pure consent clause, which gives you more control during a claim.

Practice more safely.

With 24/7 access to our free risk resources and on-staff experts, you and your practice will be better prepared for every day challenges. We don't just defend claims, we help you avoid them.

Protect your good name.

The average dentist is sued at least once in their career, which is why we're in your corner when it matters most. We lead the industry with a 95% dental trial win rate (plus 8 out of 10 claims close without payment).

Mary Clary Awards for Dental Hygiene and Assisting 2025

Fortunately for our dental profession Ms. Julie Michael stayed determined to become a dental assistant. She enrolled in school in 2005, completed four semesters of pre-requisites, then planned to take off one year which turned into three years due to her first daughter's birth. She re-enrolled in 2010 and found out she was pregnant with daughter #2! Julie was determined to finish her career path and wanted to prove to her daughters that it is never too late to accomplish your goals. Not only did Julie do that but excelled to become not only a Mary Clary nominee but the recipient of the Mary Clary Award and a check for $1,500.00. Ms. Angela Odom, program director received a plaque also to display in the clinic. Ms. Odom looks forward to many more plaques on this wall!

Angela Odom

Congratulations to Ms. Taylor Martin, representing Midlands Technical College, on receiving The Mary Clary Hygiene Award. Her interest in hygiene came early in her childhood when she had wonderful experiences with her hygienist and dentist. These positive visits led her to want to assist patients providing the same loving care she always received. As class President she has attended many CE courses and set up/organized multiple projects in her class and for the community, while still maintaining her 3.7 GPA and being on the President's List. Welcome to dentistry and thanks to Midlands Tech Faculty for another great candidate. KEEP THEM COMING!!

Taylor Martin

SC Dental Care Foundation,

Thank you so much for awarding me a scholarship. I am truly grateful for your support as I continue my education in dental assisting. Your generosity motivates me to work even harder toward my goal of making a difference in the dental field.

Sincerely,
Mattie Chambers

Thank you

Dear SCDA,

Being awarded a members benefits scholarship was the greatest surprise! School comes with many financial burdens & you are so incredible in the ways you support us students! I can't tell you how much this scholarship means to me & truly makes an impact for me! It was so wonderful getting to speak with you & I look forward to the conference in August & getting to be a part of your community once I graduate! Thank you so much!

Dear SCDA, April 2025

It's such an honor to receive your foundation's scholarship this year. I'm so grateful for all that you do for us students! Your work and dedication to our future does not go unnoticed. Thank you for believing in me!

With sincere gratitude,

ADA's Credentialing Service

By Phil Latham, SCDA Executive Director

The American Dental Associations (ADA) continues to work with CAQH to make it easier for dentists to enter and provide their dental practice data with dental plans and other organizations using the CAQH Provider Data Portal. The information only needs to be entered once and submitted to the participating plans which reduces the administrative burdens of the credentialing process.

Recently, the ADA announced a collaboration with LighthSpun which will enhance the credentialing process. The LightSpun Platform seamlessly integrates with CAQH's Provider Data to automate credentialing, provider data management and insurance application services. To learn more about this service, visit <https://demo.lightspun.ai>.

"Significant delays in the credentialing processes can greatly impact dental practices and patients seeking care," said Mark A. Moats, D.M.D., Chair of the ADA's Council on Dental Benefit Programs. "The collaboration between the ADA and LightSpun offers real-time provider credentialing in days, compared to the traditional wait of weeks to months."

LightSpun's use of artificial intelligence (AI) and automation will mean greater administrative speed and efficiency for credentialing and re-credentialing, allowing dental professionals to streamline their back-office processes. Solo, group practices and dental service organizations will benefit from updating their internal processes to LightSpun's data management platform. With LightSpun's AI Platform, group practices will be able to enter into a delegated agreement with insurance carriers for faster onboarding of new dentists joining their organization.

Congratulations, D.M.D Class of 2025!

By Dr. Sarandeep Huja, Dean, James B. Edwards College of Dental Medicine Medical University of South Carolina

Dear SCDA member:

Please join me in congratulating the D.M.D. Class of 2025! This excellent group of new dentists are both talented and compassionate, prepared to provide outstanding care to their future patients and contribute meaningfully to their communities.

To share just one measure of the Class of 2025's accomplishments, the first-time pass rates for the Integrated National Boards were once again an impressive 99%.

Thank you for supporting their success. From the tangible, like gifting lab coats in their first year, to the intangible, like asking questions about their research posters at the Annual Session, your involvement in their early career sets a foundation for continued engagement in our profession.

At the South Carolina American Student Dental Association (ASDA) send-off banquet for the graduating seniors on April 25, the SCDA generously awarded sixteen scholarships. I extend a special thanks to the Central and Piedmont District Dental Societies, which joined the Pee Dee District Dental Society this year creating a scholarship for a graduate who plans to practice locally. Your generosity helps our students focus on their education, rather than debt repayment, in their final year.

The students truly see the connection between their success and the SCDA's support. They were thrilled that members of the SCDA board and staff were in attendance. ASDA student leaders recognized the SCDA with the South Carolina ASDA Award of Distinction for your loyal support of the student body. They also recognized Dr. Mona Ellis with an award of gratitude for her decades of leadership in raising scholarship dollars.

I have no doubt that today's graduates will continue to be involved in the ADA and someday pay your generosity forward to future generations of dental students. I look forward to sharing more with you from our graduation festivities here in an upcoming SCDA Bulletin.

SCDA president Dr. Deidre Crockett accepted the SC ASDA Award of Distinction on behalf of the SCDA

Dr. Ellis presented scholarships ranging from $2,000 to $25,000 on behalf of the SCDA

Award Categories:

NCOIL, the ADA and You

By Dr. Daniel Hall, SCDA Secretary-Treasurer and ADA Delegate

This past April, I attended the Spring Meeting of the National Council of Insurance Legislators (NCOIL) in Charleston, SC. Individually I knew what all those words meant, but what I didn't know was what NCOIL really means, what it does, why the ADA is working with them, and why it matters to us as dentists.

NCOIL is a group of legislators across America who all serve on state committees pertaining to insurance. And when I say insurance, I mean ANY insurance. Life, disability, long term care, dental, medical, vision, liability, you name it. Each state has its own regulations and laws that determine what insurance companies must do to operate within a given state, and I was impressed with the sheer number of state legislative attendees at this meeting. There were more than 400 people in the ballroom of the Francis Marion Hotel, where all the tables were taken and it was standing room only in the back. Now, to be fair, this number included industry representatives and other stakeholders with interest in Insurance Policy, but a large number of attendees were members of the upper and lower chambers of state legislative branches.

The reason NCOIL matters is that this group carries weight in state legislatures due to its diverse composition across state and party lines. Once NCOIL creates model legislation, it comes with implied validity that improves its chances of adoption in the state legislature. Not that the model language is a prescriptive "take it or leave it" sort of thing, because states can add or take away from it as they see fit. But the underlying framework, which is discussed by NCOIL members before, during, and after their in-person meetings, still carries that implication of "this is a solution that we approve of, and we think you should too." Part of that process involves stakeholders discussing the issues before the NCOIL Committees, so that both sides of an issue can be considered.

Enter the ADA into the arena. At the Health Insurance and Long-Term Care Committee meeting, Chad Olson from the ADA was there at the table to explain why NCOIL should readopt its 2020 model legislation, in addition to some amendments to the original document.

The three amendments were 1) virtual credit card payments from insurers should be opt in, rather than the default of opt out (where it may take multiple attempts to be successful). Virtual credit cards come with a processing fee that paper checks do not incur, and while this may save the cost of printing checks for insurance companies, it costs providers 2-3% to accept reimbursement payments in this manner. 2) There should be a change in the time limit insurance companies have to claw back payments they made in error. Rather than 18+ months for an insurance company to consider clawing back payments, the proposed amendment would change it to 6 months from date of payment. 3) Assignment of benefits should allow insurance payments to be sent to out of network providers. This would allow patients to choose providers who are out of network without being burdened to fully cover the cost of their treatment while waiting for insurance reimbursement.

As you can imagine, Chad's logical amendments were met with opposition from the representatives of three industry groups that advance the concerns of insurance companies. While no solid rebuttal was offered, the arguments that "this is beyond a simple readoption, we need more time, this impacts too much," were definitely raised. And to that end, the NCOIL Committee moved to table deciding this issue until their July meeting, with discussions ongoing in the interim.

The importance of the ADA being at this meeting cannot be understated. Policy is like a snowball. It may begin as a mere sphere, innocuous enough. But given the right conditions, it can roll and grow and become unstoppable. That is why NCOIL matters. By being at the early stages of policy creation, we can interact with insurance companies in front of legislators, have open discussions, and hopefully through the process of negotiation create model legislation that the ADA and insurance groups support. While that may seem like an oxymoron, the truth is that creating legislation that can pass is rooted in ideals but fertilized by compromise. This process can get the ADA a lot closer to positively impacting the patient and practitioner experience with insurance than attempting to reach all 50 state legislatures individually, and it carries more impact as more and more states adopt NCOIL legislation.

I am glad that I attended this event, and I'm glad that the ADA and SCDA were part of the meeting. As we have all heard, if you're not at the table, you're on the menu. And this table is definitely one where I want my association to have a seat, a place setting, and impact.
