SCDA/ADA Launch Public Relations Program

By Jeff Gardner

This summer the SCDA, in association with pilot funds from the ADA, launched the first outside public relations venture in the association's history. It had become very clear that in order to offer statewide service to the population, and to collect information that supports dentistry, a focused program was needed. In the search for PR representation, many members and friends of SCDA were enrolled to interview firms that would best suit our needs. After lengthy deliberation, the Columbia firm of Carolina Public Relations/ Marketing, Inc. was chosen.

Carolina PR is an excellent organization and one that the Board of Governors believes will help to craft the public and political support to promote good oral health legislation in South Carolina. Their plan would be to create an environment that acknowledges the health benefit to the individual child plus the collective benefit of healthier, better educated children. This is the message that SCDA repeats in NCDHM and GKAS campaigns every year, and too often gets lost.

The South Carolina Dental Association will sponsor legislation during the 2009 legislative session to require that all children in Grades K through 5, or those subsequently entering public school receive a dental screening prior to enrollment. Media attention to the issue of oral health in the state will help draw attention to the need for screenings in our school age population. Our promotion and image will help generate public support for the General Assembly to pass this worthy legislation. Carolina PR has developed a timeline and a message that cannot be ignored. Public awareness is key to SCDA legislative success.

Carolina PR understands our obligation to the oral health of each citizen of the Palmetto State. They also understand that our efforts must be made public in order to support our mission.

Our screening bill is an excellent vehicle to serve and educate the citizens of South Carolina. In application, they will work closely with our lobbyists to achieve success.

'08-'09 Directory Changes/Updates

By now you should have received your 2008-2009 SCDA Membership Directory. This was our first year compiling the Directory from a database which we share with the ADA. Sharing one database is a definite advantage for our members because you need only to call either the ADA or the SCDA to have your information updated. One call updates your information for both groups.

However, because of the migration to the new database some information, which was correct in the SCDA database previously, was incorrect or incomplete. If you did not return the Member Update form, which was sent with dues in October, or if you returned it without noting any changes, your information in the Directory may be incorrect. Please don't forget to notify either the ADA or the SCDA of any changes in regard to your information, including home or work addresses, phone numbers, email, marital status, etc.

Finally, there is a deadline for information for the Directory so that we may go to print and have it out at the beginning of the new fiscal year. We must have any no later than March 15 of the year the Directory is to be published (i.e. March 15, 2008 for the '08-'09 Directory).

Listed below are updates to the Directory. Please print this page and keep with your Directory for quick reference.

SCDA Hits Two "Home Runs"

By Phil Smith

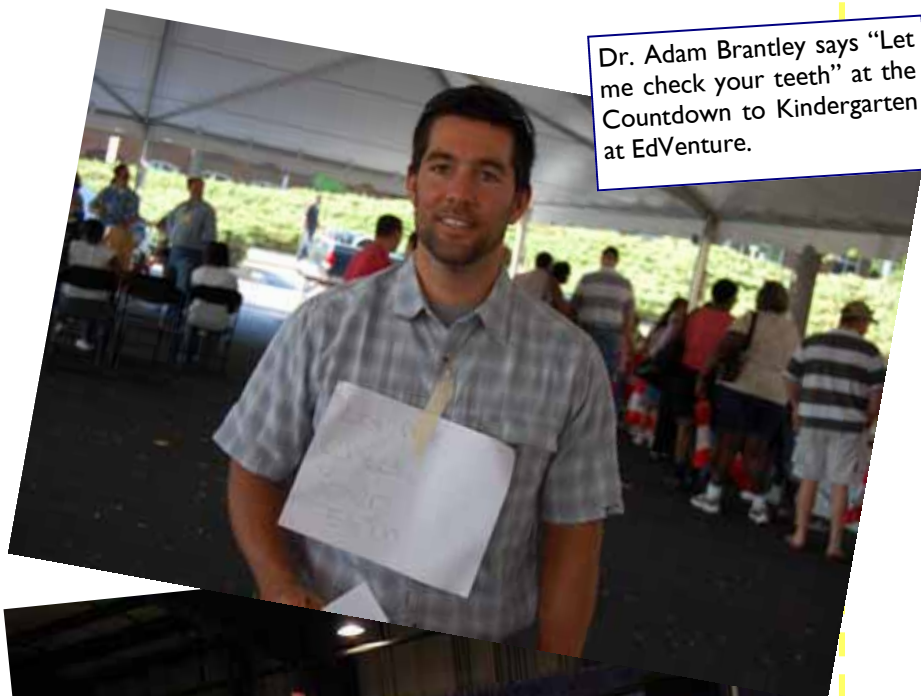

This past August 8, there was a large event that overshadowed the spectacular Olympic Opening Ceremonies in China. And if you were able to help, you were a hero and all of the children were winners. That celebration was the two pronged children's screening event in which the SCDA dentists participated. Actually, there were two tandem opportunities for children to have dental screening.

Early Friday morning a group of dentists congregated at the SC State Fairgrounds Cantey Building to participate in a road show event anchored by national radio personality, Tom Joyner. This was the day long Back to School Bash sponsored by DHEC and a list of corporate providers, and aimed at getting children ready for school. This mega- event attracted children of all ages to the Fairgrounds. Assorted displays encouraged the kids and their families to focus on good health habits. And of course, one of the most important habits is good oral health. Four dentists manned the booth and by day's end they had screened over 500 children. Ed Wise managed a bit of PR on the radio program, and Craig Draffin weathered till the end.

Later in the afternoon, EdVenture Children's Museum was the site of the Countdown to Kindergarten health fair. A large tent was raised in the parking lot on Gervais Street, and the facility was humming with children, parents, teachers and volunteers. Over a thousand attendees were present. The SCDA Screening Team was there too! Seven dentists assisted and screened kids from 5:00 until 7:30, and at the finale over 200 children were evaluated, referred for care, and given oral health gifts.

As many of the volunteers will attest, this was a fun filled opportunity to spread the word that good oral health works! All of the screeners felt that the level of care and health was better than in years past. This was surely a testament to the efforts of SCDA, the member dentists, and benefits of increased Medicaid utilization.

A special thanks to Drs. Ed Wise, Craig Draffin, Rocky Napier, Heyward Robinson, Jeff Gardner, Roberta Gardner, Susan Ryal, Julie Wehman, Adam Brantley, John Jenkins, Phil Smith, Melissa Backman and Carol French for participating.

Evolution is necessary. Change is not easy nor is it always in a direct line. Sometimes, the changes are slow and progress is at a glacier pace. And then there are the volcanoes that erupt, change the landscape in a weekend, and they are gone. I think that SCDA is somewhere in between. We make great headway, but the landscape sometimes changes slowly.

One important bit of “real estate” is our Annual Session. It is important because it generates the highest non-dues income for our organization. It also provides for getting an opportunity to have fellowship, education, and politics all at one spot. But many of you may also notice that the attendance and the resource have eroded. It has not been that long ago that we had 500 dentists, and a total of well over 2000 attendees.

There is a new Convention Over site Committee that has the challenge of addressing these issues. I am on that committee, and I am also Chair of the 2009 Annual Session. I am a glutton for punishment! But I can tell you that all of us that serve on convention planning want a great meeting! We want to craft the “most bang for the buck”. I have said it before, the speakers are as good as anywhere. We are a list of the best in the country! But change is coming.

I have had the opportunity to work on the ADA’s Annual Session and view trends that are leading the convention business. Tools and education formats that will likely become common place at state level meetings. I believe that innovation is the key to keeping viable conventions, pleasing venues, and successful exhibition floors. Allow me to share some perks that I hope will make your 2009 SCDA Annual Session more appealing.

More meetings are using an expanded web-site to promote the convention. For the first time, we are launching an early web-site that will have speaker information, and will also offer some on-line CE. There will be a downloadable handout library for the speakers. Not only does this contain costs, but it gives the registered attendee an opportunity to review the course prior to the meeting.

SCDA has been inviting dental students as our guests since 2001 with the “Sponsor a Dental Student” program. And each year we have more to offer the students. Special courses are designed for the student to assist their movement into practice. It also is a chance to bring the future dentists into organized dentistry. Social gatherings build enthusiasm and a sense of membership!

The commercial chairs are revisiting the success of the exhibit floor. This often is the “town square” of the meeting, and serves as the intersection for commerce and socialization. We want to promote our commercial partners. They are as much a part of dentistry as are you and I. But in the current economic times we need to visit, buy, and appreciate their contribution. I cannot stress the importance of buying during the Annual Session. Save your orders, and we will ask that meeting specials be available for the convention! It helps everyone!

This year’s theme is Dentists Making a Difference, a Heritage of Commitment. Our theme embodies the direction that this year’s SCDA administration and Annual Session want to display to the state. Dentistry is committed, and this year will continue seismic changes for the betterment of our patients. We need to spread the word! We need to rally the troops, because a change is in the air. A change for dentistry and a change for your Annual Session.

So now is the time to begin planning to attend the SCDA meeting in Myrtle Beach at the Kingston Plantation. The date is April 30 – May 3, 2009 (there was a typo in the directory so this date is absolute). I have a challenge and a point to prove...South Carolina Dentists can still attend in numbers that exceed 500, we can still exceed 2000 attendees, and we can again re-energize one of the best benefits that SCDA has to offer.

MAKE A DIFFERENCE, 500 IN 2009!

Till Next Time,
Phil

President's Message

I ended last month's message with a mention of two events for which the SCDA had very little notice to coordinate volunteers. I would like to extend my thanks to Ed Wise, Craig Draffin, Rocky Napier, Jeff and Roberta Gardner, Susan Ryal and the SCDA Staff for their help at the Back to School Bash at the State Fair grounds. I would also like to thank Phil Smith, Julie Wehman, Heyward Robinson, Adam Brantley, Melissa Backman, John Jenkins and Carol French for their help with the Countdown to Kindergarten event at EdVenture. The SCDA also extends its gratitude to Doral Dental, Atlanta Dental and Patterson Dental for their donated supplies for both events. Both events were very successful and more than 650 children received dental screenings and positive press coverage was generated. Thank you for continuing your Heritage of Commitment...you once again Made A Difference.

Dr. Jim Mercer
President

I would like to update you on several legislative items carried over from last year. You may recall your SCDA requested increased funding from the Legislature for raising Dental Medicaid fees and in a very tight budget year we were able to obtain $1.2 million in allocated State funds. Earlier this year your SCDA met with DHHS Director Emma Forkner, William Wells, Deputy Director of Finance, Felicity Myers, Deputy Director of Medical Services, and Deirdra Singleton, General Counsel, to discuss the implementation of the fee increase and other pressing Medicaid issues. These high level meetings with the DHHS decision makers have been very productive for communicating our position and working through various issues. An encouraging change is that the agency was interested in exploring indexing our fees to a "standard" so they could better budget for fee increases on a regular basis. We suggested the 75th percentile as a starting point as we did in the 2000 fee increase. This would lead to the department requesting increased funding for fee increases for the dental budget in the overall department budget. This would not preclude the SCDA from going to the legislature with our own requests if needed.

On August 12th the South Carolina Budget and Control Board approved a 3% budget cut for all state agencies. This cut is the result of lower than expected state revenue projections for 2009. For DHHS (Medicaid) a 3% reduction totals a $28.5 million cut in state funds for their budget. The overall impact of the cut on the state's health care system is in excess of $90 million since we will not realize the federal match tied to the state funds. Unfortunately the state has implemented an across the board cut rather than working through targeted cuts. We are working with the agency to blunt the effect of these cuts and hopefully prevent any reduced reimbursement to dentists.

Your SCDA is continuing work on our 5 year old kindergarten screening bill we began last year. We have added to the team the ADA's state targeted public affairs program resources and a local firm - Carolina PR. An interesting development has occurred related to school dental screenings. All SC elementary schools now have a school nurse in place and they have seized on dental screenings as an important role for the school nurse even though a screening is not mandated. This is a great opportunity for the SCDA to partner with school nurses on oral health. The SCDA has obtained funding from the ADA to conduct with DHEC Division of Oral Health a school nurse needs assessment related to oral health. This will give us invaluable information in how we may assist school nurses and needed data for our screening bill going into the next legislative session.

The Division of Oral Health has asked for our help in training the school nurses and we will be participating in 10 training sessions throughout the state. School nurses will be equipped to perform an ASTDD style screening and referral. They can act as a type of patient navigator connecting children in need of immediate care with dentist in the local community. The new SCHIPS program that was estimated to provide dental benefits for 87,000 new children currently has only 4000 enrolled. I am hopeful school nurses will be able to direct eligible families to enrollment counselors. The SCDA Adopt- A-School program will be a critical resource for the school nurses. If the SCDA and its members do not step up to fill the void it will be filled by others. There is a patchwork of programs throughout the state and we will take the best of each and develop a program that can be adapted statewide. The program I am most familiar with is in Aiken County. In that county there are 36 dentists that screen children and serve as a resource to treat dental emergencies. The SCDA is meeting with Lynn Hammond, Department of Education and Cathy Young Jones, school nurse coordinator next week to discuss an Adopt-A-School program. You will be hearing more about the Adopt-A-School program after our meeting and following the completion of our school nurse needs assessment.

Finally I would like to invite you to the SCDA office on Friday, October 31, 2008. At 9 am we will be discussing an exciting new initiative – SCDA Dental Access Days. These types of projects that provide adult dental care are being done all over the country and are headed by state dental associations. This is an opportunity for the SCDA to highlight the access to care issue while providing needed direct care to adults in our state. We will have representatives from programs in Virginia and North Carolina present for our discussion. Your attendance does not commit you to this project but we would like to introduce you to the idea and hope that you may have further interest in participating at some level. If you are interested in attending this informational meeting please RSVP to Phil Latham at the SCDA office.

I welcome your suggestions and comments at jmercerc@sc.rr.com.

SC Dentists Attend New Dentist Meeting

By Ben Adams

In our profession, we sometimes feel secluded in our own practices. What can we be doing better in our practices? What are our colleagues doing? How can we strengthen our profession? How can we enhance our State Committee on the New Dentist? Without interaction with a number and variety of colleagues, our practice tends to become our "bubble" where habit and routine reign. State and local dental organizations could be impacted, as well. Stepping things up requires stepping out to gain new ideas and perspectives.

If two heads are better than one, then imagine what a few hundred could do for you and your state and local groups! The nearly 300 dentists, graduate students, and dental students who attended the 22nd ADA New Dentist Conference in New Orleans June 26-28 gained much more than CE credits. Although the courses were great, the networking and sharing of ideas was invaluable. In my experience, involvement in the ADA New Dentist Conference not only benefits the dentists personally, but also potentially strengthens their local organizations.

Many successes and proposals were presented at the conferences' New Dentist Network Idea Exchange. One of the most talked about ideas came from the San Antonio District Dental Society, which has begun engaging new dentists through the social networking website, Facebook. "if people don't know each other from dental school, this is a great way to learn more about the people in dentistry, share stories about experiences they've had and what they need to watch out for," said Dr. Joshua Austin, Chair of the SADDs Committee on the New Dentist. This is just one example of many innovative ideas worth exploring for the SCDA.

Conference CE programs included clinical and practice management courses on a variety of topics of special interest to new dentists, such as financial planning, persuasive communication, restorative and esthetic dentistry, prosthodontics, case sequencing, and preparing for practice ownership.

In addition to the CE, networking, and leadership training, attendants also had the opportunity to discuss professional issues from a new dentists' perspective with ADA Officers and members of the Board of Trustees during the Conference's "Ask you ADA Leaders" Q&A session. Topics included new workforce models under development, dental school faculty shortages, licensure, and membership categories.

The 23rd ADA New Dentist Conference takes place April 30-May 2, 2009 in Miami.

Executive Director's Notes

Mr. Phil Latham
Executive Director

"I believe that term carries with it many definitions, but more than that I believe it should carry actions."

Access to Care

For years now, we have heard the term "access to care". I believe that term carries with it many definitions, but more than that I believe it should carry actions. Many states across our nation along with several of our neighboring states have begun some major access projects. Some are called Mission of Mercy (MOM) while others are called Dental Access Day (DAD). Whatever the name, the project is serving a very good cause where implemented.

President Jim Mercer and I have spoken about this on many occasions and we are ready to begin serious conversations about the possibility of having such a project take place in South Carolina. You may be asking yourself what does this mean? This type of project allows the SCDA to build additional partnerships and provide dental care for many of the uninsured and underserved populations of South Carolina.

Many states have held their access projects in airport hangers, high schools, vacant factories and fairgrounds. Clinics are set up with x-ray machines and sterilization facilities. Witnesses comment that people begin to line up as early as 6 a.m. just to see a dentist. Participants in the states that put forth the effort will tell you that the reward of giving back to the community is a blessing not to mention the hundreds receiving dental care that really need it and cannot afford it.

You may still be asking, what does this mean? President Mercer and I have scheduled the first planning meeting for such a project to be held in South Carolina. This meeting will be held at 9 a.m. on Friday, October 31, 2008. Hundreds of questions need to be asked and hundreds of decisions need to be made. The bottom line is the SCDA needs and wants your help.

This meeting means no commitment but presents an opportunity to learn just what type of project this is and what role you as an SCDA member might play. If you would like to attend this meeting, please let me know at lathamp@scda.org

Fall of the Year

Every fall it gets extremely busy at the SCDA office. In addition to the normal work, preparation and planning for the 16th District Caucus meeting, Southern Leadership meeting and the national ADA meeting take place. The SCDA Delegation will be attending these meetings over the next two months to have a say in what goes on nationally. Look for a report in the early winter to see what decisions were made.
